PROJECT DESCRIPTION
6425 W. Grand Ave. / 2316 N. Narragansett Ave., Chicago, IL

SUPPLEMENTAL SUBMISSIONS TYPE 1 REZONING
Additional information for "Type 1" rezoning narrative:

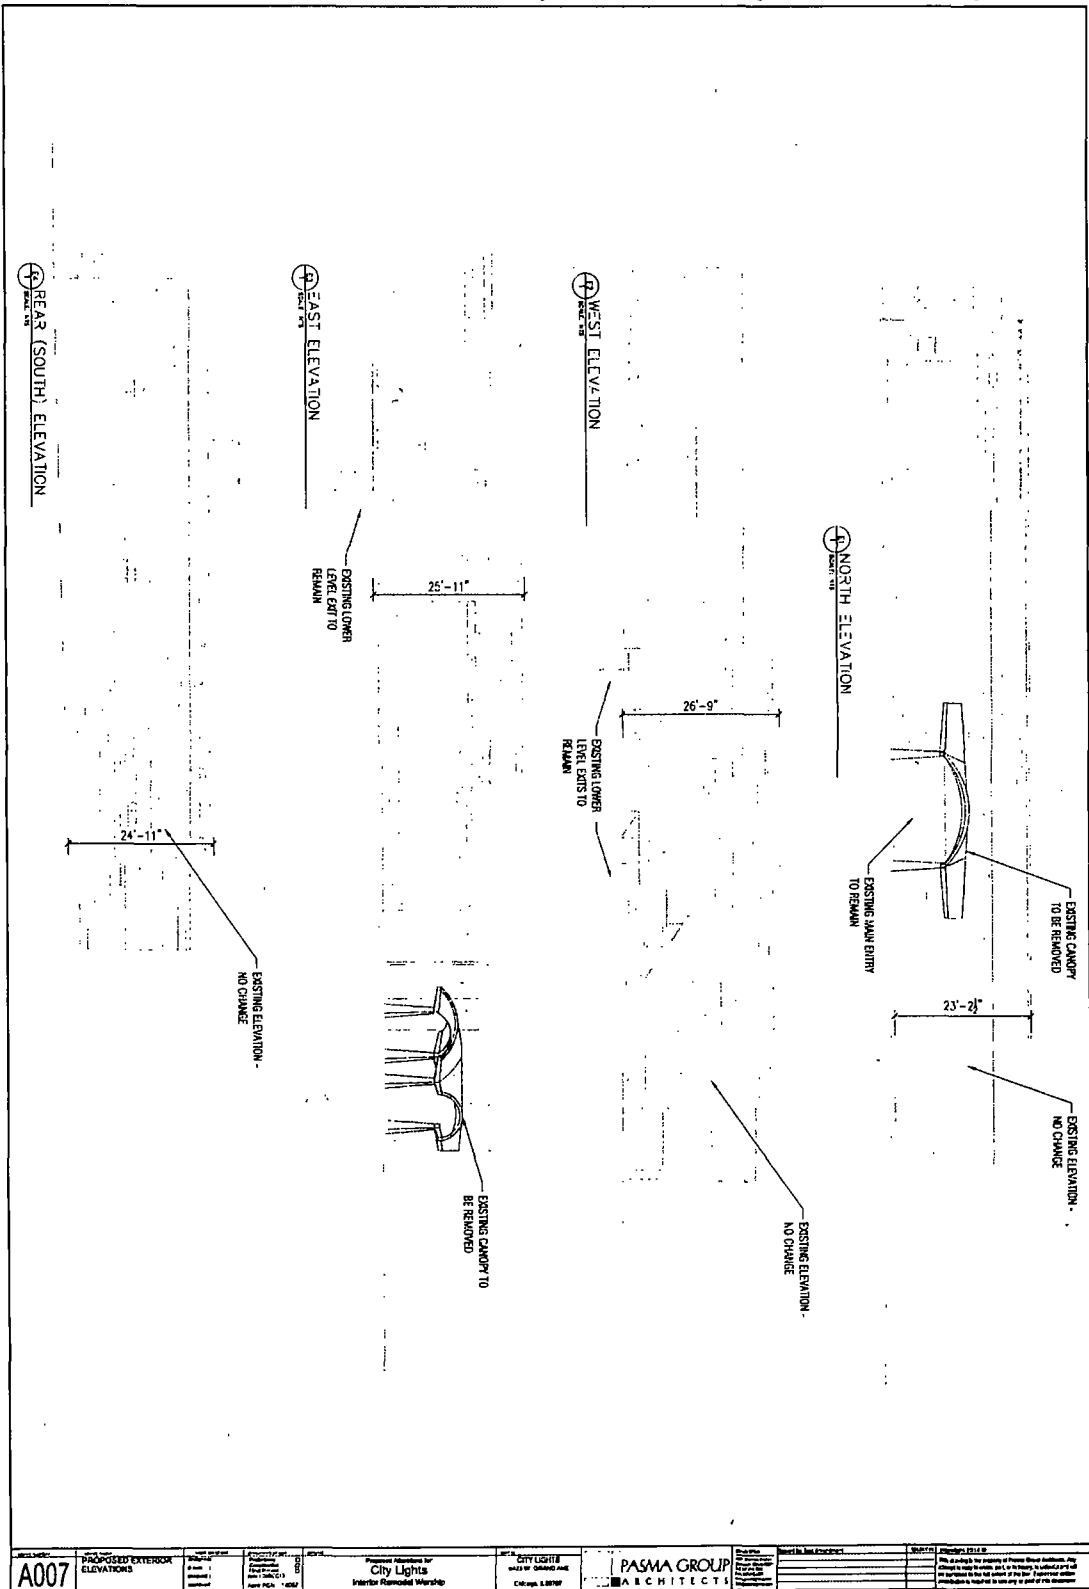

The applicant, City Lights Church seeks to renovate the current dilapidated building and adjacent parking lots to use as its new church facility. The current facility was built as a banqueting hall and has been subsequently used as a food catering facility by the present owner. As a banqueting facility, the layout is easily accommodated for a church with a sanctuary, accessory Sunday school class rooms, and an area for fellowship. The planned renovation will neither increase the footprint nor the height of the building.

The property is situated on three lots, each with a different zoning classification which includes C1-1 for the building; B3-1 for the adjacent parking lot; and M1-1 for the lot exiting onto Narragansett Ave. Because the three lots comprise one zoning lot, the M1-1 designation which does not allow for religious assemblies controls. Accordingly, the applicant seeks to rezone the 3 parcels to all be zoned as B3-1 so as to allow a church with accessory classrooms..

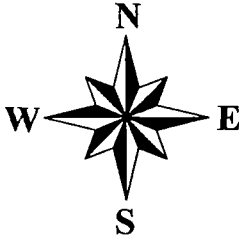

The location of the property is in a buffer area between a M1-1 zone to the West; a B3-1 and M1-1 zone to the North across Grand Ave.; a B3-1 zone directly to the East; and a RS-3 zone to the South. As such the church is compatible with the neighborhood given that churches are considered compatible with residential areas, but due to parking and traffic, also fit well into a buffer commercial or business districts which are more likely to have adequate existing facilities and parking. Grand Ave. and Narragansett Ave. are both capable of handling the limited increased traffic that this small (224 seat sanctuary) will generate, especially in light of the fact that its peak use will be Sunday mornings when traffic is not great.
