*- Anthony D. Romero
Executive Director*

You made a great decision when you stopped today and made a monthly pledge.

Now, you and the ACLU can work together to make a profound difference in people's lives. Thanks to sustained support from you and other Guardians of Liberty members, we'll be ready to act at a moment's notice when a crisis hits. And we will have the steady stream of resources to keep working month after month until we achieve another civil liberties breakthrough.

There are few experiences more rewarding than knowing that, when the civil liberties of vulnerable people were in jeopardy, you stood on principle and refused to let it happen.

The ACLU community takes on tough battles to protect people's freedoms. Sometimes, victory comes quickly. Sometimes, it takes years of effort. But, we always stand on principle, never yield, and never stop working until we win.

We're so glad to have you on board. And I know that, together, we're going to do amazing things.

If You Want to Know About Your Impact, Just Ask Our Clients.

Each year, the ACLU takes on thousands of cases representing people whose civil liberties have been thrown into serious jeopardy. The battles we wage and the victories we win often reverberate far beyond the individual case we are involved in.

That's certainly the case with Jim Obergefell, our client in the Supreme Court victory making freedom to marry the law of the land. But don't take our word for it, here is what Jim has to say:

"As the ACLU's client in the history-making Obergefell v. Hodges case, I know how hard — and how long — the ACLU worked to bring the freedom to marry to every person in America.

Like it has been for countless others, the ACLU was there when I needed them. With the support of their members, they stand up for what is right and demand that our country live up to its ideals."

You Are Protecting Vulnerable Voters: Ruthelle Frank

Ruthelle Frank, a feisty 89-year-old resident of Brokaw, Wisconsin, has voted in every election since 1948. Ever since Wisconsin introduced harsh voter ID laws, she can no longer vote. The reason? She doesn't have a birth certificate and her maiden name is misspelled on her government records. For five years now, Ruthelle and the ACLU have been challenging these laws.

No citizen should face barriers like this. With your support, the ACLU is fighting back against partisan voter suppression laws that are designed to sway elections by blocking millions of voters from the polls — particularly African-Americans, minorities, the elderly and the poor.

You Are Standing Up for People Jailed for Being Poor: Joseph Anderson

Joseph Anderson, a survivor of multiple heart attacks and a stroke, was getting by one day at a time on Social Security. When Biloxi, Mississippi police arrested him for an outstanding $200 traffic fine, they gave him two options — pay up or stay in jail. He was locked up for seven nights before finally being released. The ACLU took his case and won sweeping reforms.

Being poor is not a crime. And, with your support, the ACLU will bring an end to modern-day debtors' prisons.

You Are Pushing Back Against Anti-LGBT Laws: Hunter Schafer

The ACLU is in court challenging North Carolina's sweeping anti-LGBT law HB 2, which blocks efforts to protect LGBT people against discrimination and vicious prays on transgender people like our client, Hunter Schafer. A seventeen-year-old woman and a junior in high school, Hunter could be forced to use the boys' restroom, exposing her to threats of violence and harassment.

With your help, we will keep fighting to get draconian laws like HB 2 struck off the books in North Carolina and across the nation.

You Are Helping Women Protect Their Rights and Their Health: Tamesha Means

ACLU client, Tamesha Means, was 18 weeks pregnant when her waters broke. She rushed to the only hospital close by, Mercy Health Partners in Michigan. Following U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops rules that prohibit Catholic hospitals from providing an abortion, even if the woman's life is at risk, the hospital turned her away. The doctors never told Tamesha that the fetus wasn't going to make it and the safest course would be to terminate the pregnancy.

Tamesha was refused treatment two more times. It wasn't until she started to deliver while being discharged that the hospital admitted her.

With your help, the ACLU will continue to fight until no woman has to fear she'll be turned away from a hospital during her time of greatest need.
