THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO

PHYSICS DEPARTMENT

PHYSICS 354
LECTURE 10
MAY 19, 2010

1. The first part of the lecture is devoted to a review of the basic concepts of quantum mechanics. We start with the wave function  $\psi(x,t)$  and the Schrödinger equation. The probability density is given by  $|\psi|^2$  and the probability current by  $j = \frac{\hbar}{2mi}(\psi \nabla \psi^* - \psi^* \nabla \psi)$ .

2. We then discuss the stationary states of a potential well. For a rectangular well of width  $a$  and depth  $V_0$ , the energy levels are given by  $E_n = -\frac{\hbar^2 k_n^2}{2m}$  where  $k_n a = n\pi$  for  $n=1,2,3,\dots$ . The wave functions are  $\psi_n(x) = \sqrt{\frac{2}{a}} \sin(k_n x)$  for  $0 < x < a$ .

3. In the case of a delta potential  $V(x) = -\alpha \delta(x)$ , the wave function is continuous at  $x=0$  but its derivative has a discontinuity. The bound state energy is  $E = -\frac{m\alpha^2}{2\hbar^2}$  and the wave function is  $\psi(x) = \sqrt{\frac{m\alpha}{\hbar^2}} e^{-\frac{m\alpha|x|}{\hbar^2}}$ .

4. We also discuss scattering states. For a rectangular barrier of height  $V_0$  and width  $a$ , the transmission coefficient  $T$  and reflection coefficient  $R$  are given by  $T = \frac{4k_1 k_2}{(k_1 + k_2)^2 \sin^2(k_2 a)}$  and  $R = 1 - T$ , where  $k_1 = \sqrt{2mE}$  and  $k_2 = \sqrt{2m(E - V_0)}$ .

PHYSICS 354

5. Finally, we discuss the tunneling effect. For a rectangular barrier of height  $V_0$  and width  $a$ , the transmission coefficient for  $E < V_0$  is  $T \approx e^{-2\kappa a}$  where  $\kappa = \sqrt{2m(V_0 - E)}$ .

interest of a member or manager in a limited liability company, or interest of a beneficiary of a trust, estate or other similar entity. If none, state "None." NOTE: Pursuant to Section 2-154-030 of the Municipal Code of Chicago ("Municipal Code"), the City may require any such additional information from any applicant which is reasonably intended to achieve full disclosure.

The Disclosing Party must disclose the name and business address of each subcontractor, attorney, lobbyist, accountant, consultant and any other person or entity whom the Disclosing Party has retained or expects to retain in connection with the Matter, as well as the nature of the relationship, and the total amount of the fees paid or estimated to be paid. The Disclosing Party is not required to disclose employees who are paid solely through the Disclosing Party's regular payroll.

“Lobbyist” means any person or entity who undertakes to influence any legislative or administrative action on behalf of any person or entity other than: (1) a not-for-profit entity, on an unpaid basis, or (2) himself. “Lobbyist” also means any person or entity any part of whose duties as an employee of another includes undertaking to influence any legislative or administrative action.

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that proper record-keeping is essential for the integrity of the financial system and for the ability to detect and prevent fraud. The text also mentions the role of internal controls in ensuring the reliability of financial information.

In addition, the document highlights the need for transparency and accountability in financial reporting. It states that stakeholders, including investors and regulators, rely on accurate and timely financial statements to make informed decisions. Therefore, organizations must adhere to established accounting standards and provide clear explanations for any significant changes or adjustments.

Furthermore, the document discusses the impact of technology on financial reporting. It notes that the use of advanced software and data analytics tools can significantly improve the efficiency and accuracy of financial processes. However, it also warns that the implementation of new technologies must be carefully managed to ensure data security and compliance with relevant regulations.

Finally, the document concludes by emphasizing the importance of ongoing monitoring and evaluation of financial reporting processes. It suggests that organizations should regularly review their internal controls and reporting procedures to identify any weaknesses or areas for improvement. This proactive approach is crucial for maintaining the highest standards of financial reporting and for ensuring the long-term success of the organization.

The second part of the document provides a detailed overview of the various components of a financial reporting system. It begins by discussing the role of the accounting department in collecting and processing financial data. It then moves on to describe the different types of financial statements, including the balance sheet, income statement, and cash flow statement, and explains how they are prepared and presented to stakeholders.

Next, the document discusses the importance of internal controls in ensuring the accuracy and reliability of financial reporting. It outlines the key elements of an effective internal control system, such as segregation of duties, authorization procedures, and regular reconciliations. It also provides examples of common internal control weaknesses and offers suggestions for how to address them.

Finally, the document discusses the role of external auditors in providing an independent opinion on the accuracy and reliability of financial statements. It explains the audit process, from the selection of the audit firm to the issuance of the audit report, and highlights the importance of maintaining open communication and cooperation between the organization and its auditors.

A. COURT-ORDERED CHILD SUPPORT COMPLIANCE

Under Municipal Code Section 2-92-415, substantial owners of business entities that contract with the City must remain in compliance with their child support obligations throughout the contract's term.

Has any person who directly or indirectly owns 10% or more of the Disclosing Party been declared in arrearage on any child support obligations by any Illinois court of competent jurisdiction?

Yes       No       No person directly or indirectly owns 10% or more of the Disclosing Party.

If "Yes," has the person entered into a court-approved agreement for payment of all support owed and is the person in compliance with that agreement?

Yes       No

B. FURTHER CERTIFICATIONS

1. Pursuant to Municipal Code Chapter 1-23, Article I ("Article I")(which the Applicant should consult for defined terms (e.g., "doing business") and legal requirements), if the Disclosing Party submitting this EDS is the Applicant and is doing business with the City, then the Disclosing Party certifies as follows: (i) neither the Applicant nor any controlling person is currently indicted or charged with, or has admitted guilt of, or has ever been convicted of, or placed under supervision for, any criminal offense involving actual, attempted, or conspiracy to commit bribery, theft, fraud, forgery, perjury, dishonesty or deceit against an officer or employee of the City or any sister agency; and (ii) the Applicant understands and acknowledges that compliance with Article I is a continuing requirement for doing business with the City. NOTE: If Article I applies to the Applicant, the permanent compliance timeframe in Article I supersedes some five-year compliance timeframes in certifications 2 and 3 below.

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that proper record-keeping is essential for the success of any business and for the protection of the interests of all parties involved.

In order to ensure the accuracy of these records, it is recommended that a systematic approach be adopted. This involves the use of standardized forms and procedures, as well as the implementation of a robust internal control system. Regular audits and reconciliations are also crucial to identify and correct any discrepancies.

The second part of the document focuses on the role of management in overseeing the financial operations of the organization. It highlights the need for clear communication and collaboration between different departments to ensure that all financial activities are properly documented and reported.

Management should also be responsible for ensuring that all financial transactions are supported by valid and legal documentation. This includes invoices, receipts, and contracts. By maintaining a high level of transparency and accountability, the organization can build trust with its stakeholders and avoid potential legal and financial risks.

The third part of the document discusses the importance of regular financial reporting. It explains that timely and accurate reports provide valuable insights into the organization's financial performance and help management make informed decisions. It also notes that these reports are often required by regulatory authorities and investors.

In conclusion, the document stresses that a strong financial management system is the foundation of a successful business. By following the guidelines outlined here, organizations can ensure that their financial records are accurate, reliable, and compliant with all relevant regulations. This will not only protect the organization's assets but also enhance its overall credibility and long-term growth.

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry should be supported by a valid receipt or invoice. This ensures transparency and allows for easy verification of the data. The second part covers the process of reconciling bank statements with the company's internal records. This step is crucial for identifying any discrepancies and ensuring that the financial statements are accurate. The final part of the document provides a summary of the key findings and recommendations for improving the accounting process.

In addition, it is recommended that the company should implement a robust internal control system. This includes separating duties between different departments to prevent fraud and errors. Regular audits should be conducted to ensure that the system is working effectively. The document also suggests that the company should invest in training for its accounting staff to keep them up-to-date with the latest industry practices and technologies.

Overall, the document highlights the need for a systematic and disciplined approach to accounting. By following the guidelines outlined here, the company can ensure that its financial records are accurate, reliable, and compliant with all relevant regulations. This will not only help in making informed business decisions but also in maintaining the trust of stakeholders.

The following table provides a detailed breakdown of the company's financial performance over the last quarter. It shows the revenue generated from different product lines, the associated costs, and the resulting profit margins. This data is essential for understanding the company's operational efficiency and identifying areas for improvement.

It is also important to note that the company's financial performance is closely tied to its operational efficiency. Reducing waste and improving the production process can lead to significant cost savings and higher profit margins. The document provides several suggestions for how the company can achieve these goals, such as implementing lean manufacturing principles and investing in new technology.

Finally, the document concludes by emphasizing the importance of ongoing monitoring and reporting. The company should establish a regular schedule for reviewing its financial performance and making adjustments as needed. This proactive approach will help the company stay on track and achieve its long-term financial goals.

The information provided in this document is for internal use only and should not be distributed to the public. It is the property of the company and is subject to change without notice. If you have any questions or need further information, please contact the accounting department.
