Joseph "Joe Harris" Hawrysz Biography

Joseph Hawrysz, known to many as Joe Harris, was born on July 18, 1934 in Bridgeport. He and his wife, Georgiann, continue to reside in the same neighborhood, not far from where he grew up. Hawrysz started using the surname Harris in the 1950's when he played basketball for Loyola University because, according to him, it was easier to pronounce and fit better on the back of his jersey. In 1955, he married Georgiann and together they raised their five children in Bridgeport. In 1961, Hawrysz bought the hardware store located at 3301 S Wallace Ave. For 60 years he owned and operated Joe Harris Hardware. Patrons of his store appreciated the personal touch, project expertise, and friendship that differentiated Joe Harris Hardware from the big box stores that were located nearby. After handing over the store manager responsibilities to his nephew and slowly shortening his hours, Hawrysz decided it was time to retire and closed shop for one last time on August 31, 2022.
