SUBSTITUTE RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, throughout the sordid history of this world, there have been periods of unconscionable and systematic subjugation and abuse of men, women, and children by means of enslavement; and

WHEREAS, long promoted and practiced by generations of men and women the world over, slavery and servitude has left - and continues to leave - an immeasurable impact on countless physical, psychological, familial, cultural, and economic aspects of everyday life; and

WHEREAS, modern-day slavery is still extant in the West African nation of Mauritania; and

WHEREAS, the institution of slavery in Mauritania exists in conjunction with routine sexual and physical violence against women and children to ensure its perpetuation; and

WHEREAS, home to visionaries and innovators in the continuous fight for human rights, the City of Chicago and the State of Illinois share an extensive and proud history of supporting the abolition of slavery; and

WHEREAS, the U.S. State Department's 2014 Report on Trafficking in Persons states that "held for generations by slave-holding families, persons subjected to slavery are forced to work without pay as cattle herders and domestic servants;" and

WHEREAS, the State Department's 2014 Report further states that "the government failed to hold traffickers criminally accountable, and law enforcement and judicial personnel intervened on behalf of alleged offenders to thwart the progress of criminal prosecutions;" and

WHEREAS, the United States government is closely following the legal proceedings against Biram Ould Dah Ould Abeid, President of the Initiative for the Resurgence of the Abolitionist Movement (IRA), IRA

Vice President Brahim Bilal Ramdhane, and Djiby Sow, President of Kawal e Yelitaare; and

WHEREAS, the United States is deeply concerned by the January 15, 2015 court decision to convict and sentence these abolitionists to two years imprisonment, and the impact this ruling will have on freedom of association and assembly in Mauritania; and

WHEREAS, in an encouraging step, the Association of Mauritanian Qulemas (religious scholars) issued a Fatwa on March 31, 2015, which held that slavery has no legal ground with respect to the Shari'ah law in Mauritania; and

WHEREAS, one of the notable accomplishments of the Chicago City Council in previous decades was its strong and public stances against another injustice in Africa-the cruelty of Apartheid in South Africa-and that this Chicago City Council stance was part of the international movement that brought sanctions against-and eventually an end to-Apartheid in South Africa; and

WHEREAS, just as the City of Chicago stood up for abolition and spoke out against slavery then, we urge the appellate court to review both the convictions and the sentencing without delay, and to handle these important cases in a fair, impartial, and transparent manner; now, therefore,

BE IT RESOLVED, that we, the Mayor and Members of the City Council of the City of Chicago, assembled this sixth day of May, 2015, do hereby join the U.S. Government in expressing the City of Chicago's support of efforts by the Mauritanian government and civil society to eliminate slavery in Mauritania, which must be a sustained and collective effort by government, religious, law enforcement, judicial, tribal, and civil society leaders, together with all Mauritians; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That copies of this resolution be presented to the members of United States Congress and the United Nations.
