

Whereas, between 2000 and 2018, rent burdened households (defined as paying 30 percent or more of household income on rent) increased by 11.6% percent and gross rents of $1,000 and above increased by 39.7%; and

Whereas, the rapid increase in home and land values has resulted in an increase in demolitions, diminishing the character and community of the Pilsen Historic District as long-time residents can no longer afford to live in the neighborhood; and

Whereas, it is necessary, desirable, and in the public interest to protect the affordable housing stock in the Pilsen Historic District, such protection to include minimizing displacement of long-time residents; and

Whereas, a temporary moratorium on complete demolitions, which can lead to destabilizing the community and reducing the availability of affordable housing within the Pilsen Historic District, so that the City can evaluate data and findings on how to help preserve the affected community is a useful and important step to further the above objectives within the Pilsen Historic District; now, therefore,
